
CONTRIBUTORS

Jim Coby is Assistant Professor of English at Indiana University, Kokomo. His research revolves around literature of the American South, environmental literature and ecocriticism, and comics and graphic novels. His work has previously been published in the North Carolina Literary Review, Arkansas Review, South Central Review, Supernatural Studies, Clues: A Journal of Detection, and others.

Christopher Lupke (Ph.D. Cornell University, 1993) is Professor of Chinese Cultural Studies at the University of Alberta and Chair of the Department of East Asian Studies. His most recent publication is the Dictionary of Literary Biography, Chinese Poets since 1949, co-edited with Thomas Moran (Gale Cengage, 2021). Currently, Lupke is engaged in a book-length study on the theme of filiality in modern Chinese literature and cinema.

Precious McKenzie, PhD, MFA, is an Associate Professor of English at Rocky Mountain College in Billings, Montana. She teaches First-Year Writing, Literature and the Environment, Travel Writing, and British Literature. Her academic articles have appeared in Victorian Literature & Culture, English, and Journeys: The International Journal of Travel and Travel Writing. She is also a published children's book author. Her recent books for children include the picture book Cinder Yeti (2019) and Ruffian (2021), a novel about the racehorse of the same name. She is the regional advisor for the Montana chapter of the Society of Children's Book Writers & Illustrators.

Min Yang is an Assistant Professor in the Department of World Languages and Cultures at Bowling Green State University. Her research interests include trauma studies, film studies, and contemporary Chinese literature and film after 1976.